Winston Spencer Churchill, who resigned last week from the British Cabinet, today told the House of Commons that the proposal to send an army to the relief of Antwerp originated with Earl Kitchener and the French government. Churchill was outlining the reasons for his resignation and explaining his administration of the admiralty, of which he was formerly first lord.

Mr. Churchill said that if any operations in the history of the world were worth carrying through with utter disregard of life, the Dardanelles operations were.

Mr. Churchill was severely criticised following the Antwerp expedition, which was made by marines, many of whom had to flee to Holland, where they were interned.

NEGRO EDUCATOR CLAIMED BY DEATH

Booker T. Washington Succumbed at Tuskegee From Nervous Breakdown.

Tuskegee, Ala., Nov. 15.—Booker T. Washington, the noted negro educator and founder of Tuskegee Institute, died of a nervous breakdown early Sunday at his home here, four hours after his arrival from New York.

The negro leader had been in failing health for several months, but his condition became serious only last week while he was in the East. He realized that the end was near, but was determined to make the long trip south to bear out his oft-expressed statement that he had been "born in the South, have lived all my life in the South and expect to die and be buried in the South."

He reached his home Saturday at midnight and died at 4:40 o'clock Sunday morning.

Specialists who had examined Washington said he was suffering from nervous breakdown and hardening of the arteries.

He is survived by his widow, three children and four grandchildren. His brother, John H. Washington, is superintendent of industries at Tuskegee Institute.

The funeral will be held at Tuskegee Institute Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock.

Washington was born in slavery near Hale's Ford, Va., in 1857 or 1858. After the emancipation of his race he moved with his family to West Virginia. He was an ambitious boy and saved his money for an education. When he was able to scrape together sufficient funds to pay his stage coach fare to Hampton, Va., he entered General Armstrong's school there and worked his way through the academic course, graduating in 1875. Later he became a teacher in the Hampton Institute, where he remained until 1881, when he organized an industrial school for negroes at Tuskegee. He remained principal of this school up to the time of his death.

The institute started in a rented shanty church and today it owns 3,500 acres of land in Alabama and has nearly 100 buildings valued at half a million dollars.

GIVING EMPHASIS TO DIVERSIFICATION

Farm Demonstrator Urges Farmers Not to Abandon Diversification and Go Back to All-Cotton.

A year ago there was a great deal of interest being taken by the farmers and others throughout the county in what was then called the diversification and marketing movement that had been started and partially organized. This movement, according to the judgment of the writer, was one of the most important that has ever been started among the people of Brazos County. For different reasons this organization was never completed. Consequently, the marketing branch of it has not amounted to anything scarcely, from the fact that the farmers have made very little organized effort toward marketing their produce. But according to the way I see it, the diversification movement has been worth thousands of dollars to the people of the county. Not only to Brazos County, but to the whole State.

Last year, it will be remembered, we had nearly 24,000 bales of cotton marketed in Bryan. We had over four million bales in the State. Right in connection with that big crop the people were in the worst financial strain they have ever been. The conditions were awful, such as none of us ever want to see again. From the pressure of those hard times the farmers were forced (I use the word "forced" advisedly, for that was the only thing that ever could have made them change) to diversify their crops and reduce their cotton acreage. Now notwithstanding we have had more calamities and unfavorable seasons to contend with this year than any year any of us ever saw, still the whole scheme of diversification has worked like a charm, and notwithstanding we are going to market about ten thousand bales of cotton less than we did last year, the people are in a hundred per cent better shape than they were at that time. In the last thirty days the writer has interviewed many farmers throughout the county in regard to how they were coming out with the present year's work. Many of these men have answered, "All right." While numbers of them have told me they are in "hard shape" and are not going to get out of debt, but without a single exception they have told me it was last year's debts that were causing them the trouble; that so far as the present crop is concerned they would have come out ahead, but having to carry heavy debts from last year they were again to be hard pressed through another year.

And right here is where the danger is going to come in. These same men who got in debt last year and are having to make all kinds of shifts to get these debts carried over another year are going to be very greatly tempted under the present good price of cotton and cottonseed to leave off diversification and go back and plant the "whole earth" in cotton again. My farmer friends, in the name of all reason, don't do this. If you do, it will be almost equivalent to suicide. Resolve right now and start right now to prepare your land to plant a sufficient acreage in diversified crops to insure you a bountiful supply of the things you need at home. And then plant what cotton you can cultivate easily and well, and you will come out all right.

The most fatal thing and the greatest calamity, as I see it today, would be for the people of the State and the south to plant a large acreage in cotton next year to the neglect of other crops that bring prosperity and happiness to our Southern homes. It does seem to this writer that the condition of the people of this section today with a short cotton crop, compared to the condition of the same people a year ago with a large cotton crop, would be an object lesson sufficient to teach any farmer on earth which would be the better for him to do. County Demonstration Agent.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

John Darby and Miss Lillie Pyles. John Hand and Miss Mary Zimek. John Lewis and Alice Lee Lawson.

REPORTS OF GERMAN ADVANCES PARTLY DENIED

BENBOW - SEALE.

A notable matrimonial event of the week of marked interest, uniting two of Brazos County's most representative families, was that of Miss Bessie Seale and Dr. Algie Benbow, solemnized in the presence of a few relatives at the First Presbyterian Church on Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Rev. Charlton H. Storey was the officiating minister. Sacred and sincere were the solemn words as he pronounced the prayer of benediction and the bride and groom spoke the beautiful vows that will forever bind their lives in happy wedlock.

This was an event of wide social import and although Dame Rumor had hinted at the engagement, the announcement of the marriage came as a surprise. However, their many friends, who are tried and true, and whose every heart is sincere with interest and love for them, heartily forgive and wish that the best which life holds will follow them.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Seale of Benchley. She is a social favorite, highly educated and accomplished. She is a young lady of sincere sweetness and perfect charm of manner and possesses the faculty of numbering everyone as her friend.

The groom is the son of Mrs. A. Benbow and is a prominent and trustworthy young professional man. He is one of Bryan's most capable dentists, his genial manners having won for him a host of friends in the social and business world.

Immediately after the ceremony Dr. and Mrs. Benbow left for a trip to Houston and San Antonio. Upon their return they will make their home in this city. The bride wore a handsome traveling suit of dark blue with chiffon blouse and hat and accessories in harmony.

HOW THE ARGENTINE HAS AIDED FARMERS

By JOHN M. OSKISON.

The financial history of the Argentine Republic is interesting; it was told briefly by a delegate from that country to the latest Pan-American Financial Conference in Washington.

I want to refer now only to that part of Mr. Pearson's talk that bore upon the financing of agriculture, and to contrast Argentine methods and theory with our own.

One of the oldest of the Argentine banks was that of the Province of Buenos Ayres, a bank of issue, and one that became very powerful. It was founded in 1862.

"It used to loan its money," said Mr. Pearson, "at low interest with a 5 per cent amortization each three months, to the farmers and owners of land, enabling them to convert their lands into our fine ranches of today. In this way the principal land owners of our country have made their fortunes."

In another part of his talk, Mr. Pearson said:

"In 1873 a wealthy group of citizens organized a National bank, the government contributing half the capital, and for many years it was a powerful institution, helping the development of all our industries, such as sugar in Tucuman, wine in the Province of Mendoza and San Juan, as well as agriculture in the Province of Santa Fe."

Argentina has also a National mortgage bank, a government institution managed by directors appointed by the President of the Republic. Its business is the issuing of mortgage bonds, bearing interest at the rates of 5 and 6 per cent.

This government mortgage bank issues loans only up to 50 per cent of the value of real estate, and the amount to be loaned to any one is limited. With the payment of each year's interest 1 per cent must also be paid toward the principal.

Some 200 millions of these mortgage bonds have been issued, most of them being held (before the war, at any rate) by Belgian investors.

Have we done as much for our farmers? We have not!

Hart of this city, representatives of S. Samuel of Houston. The consideration was $2,500. There were sixty-eight bales in the lot, the majority of which is said to be damaged very little.

STATE OFFICIALS MUST ECONOMIZE

Terrell Announced That Ten Dollars a Day Hotel Bills, Etc., Must Be Limited.

[By Associated Press.]

Austin, Texas, November 12.—A letter mailed by Comptroller Terrell to all State department heads and heads of institutions advises that hereafter no expense accounts, including items for barbers, porters, clothes pressing, etc., will be honored. He also suggested purchase of mileage books by those traveling for the State, which he estimates will save $100,000 per year.

Governor Ferguson is co-operating with the comptroller in an effort to maintain business principles in State expenditures. He will advise all appointees that such practices may mean loss of office to them. Ten dollars per day hotel bills and other exorbitant expenses will be allowed no more. Comptroller Terrell has taken this step in an effort to place expenditures of the State on a systematic businesslike basis.

OFFERED HIM BABY THEN USED PISTOL

Allen Godley, Charged With Seduction, Seriously Wounded by Miss Alma Morgan at Corsicana.

Corsicana, Tex., Nov. 10.—While standing in front of the district judge's bench in the court room Tuesday morning, Allen Godley was fired upon by Miss Alma Morgan. A bullet from a 38-caliber pistol inflicted a dangerous wound in Godley's neck.

Godley was charged with seduction and his trial was set for Tuesday.

Godley was sitting when Miss Morgan approached him, saying, "Allen, here's your baby." He replied that he did not want it and turned to walk away. She fired, the ball entering the back just below the base of the neck, coming out in the breast and struck the district judge's stand. Godley fell, his lower limbs being paralyzed from the shock, and remained speechless for several minutes.

Miss Morgan was taken in charge by Deputy Sheriff Currington. No charge has been made against her.

The only statement by Miss Morgan was that she had "stood all she could."

The trial of the case had been postponed just before the shooting until February.

Godley is in a sanitarium and his condition is regarded as serious.

J. J. SCASTA DEAD.

Was Injured by Fall From Wagon and Death Followed Quickly.

J. J. Scasta, one of the best known Bohemian residents of Brazos County, died at his home near Wheelock last night at 11 o'clock, from injuries received when he fell from his wagon near his home at 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The wheels of the wagon passed over his body and he was injured internally, and although a physician was summoned as quickly as possible, nothing could be done to ameliorate his suffering. The full particulars of the accident could not be learned by the members of the family, as he was in an unconscious condition when found and rallied very little after the accident.

He was 52 years of age and had been a resident of Brazos County about 36 years, making his home near Bryan and at Wheelock during this time. He was an industrious and prosperous farmer and had a large number of friends who mourn his untimely death.

He is survived by his wife and nine children, all of whom are residents of Brazos County.

The funeral was held from the residence at 4 o'clock this afternoon and the body was interred in the Wheelock cemetery.

STORY OF THE CRIME.

[By Associated Press.] Fort Worth, Tex., Nov. 10.—C. A. Myers was hanged here this morning for the murder of A. W. Montague. His head was snapped off by the fall. Two hours before he was hanged Myers tried to commit suicide by cutting his wrist arteries with a piece of glass.

STORY OF THE CRIME.

[By Associated Press.] Fort Worth, Tex., Nov. 10.—C. A. Myers was formally charged with murder on January 20, 1915, after killing A. W. Montague, superintendent of terminals for the Texas & Pacific Railway Company, and Myers' former employer. He discharged Myers several months previous to the killing. Refusal to re-employ Myers as a switchman caused him to accost Montague in the yards, speak a few words to him and before Montague could do anything or say anything fired three shots into his body.

Myers was indicted for murder the next day. Ten days later Myers was tried, convicted and sentenced to hang. An appeal resulted in affirmation of sentence. His attorneys went to Governor Ferguson with a petition for clemency. The Governor held that the law should take its course and that he would not interfere.

Thirty minutes before execution time, on August 12, the Court of Criminal Appeals granted a stay of execution in order to test the man's sanity.

The sanity trial was held in September, and a new death sentence imposed. Among the witnesses was Myers' wife. She said she believed her husband was insane. The jury hearing the sanity proceedings returned a verdict that he was sane after taking two ballots. Reaffirmation of the death sentence was passed and the date set for November 10.

Myers was 60 years old. He previously had shot a fellow workman in Tulsa, Okla., and served a short sentence for the crime.

ATTEMPTED HOLDUP.

Fred Charis, a Mexican, reported to the officers in the early part of last night that an effort was made by two negroes to hold him up on West Lamar street in the extreme western portion of the city, but that he had escaped by running away. The neighborhood was searched and three negroes were found with their pockets stuffed full of big rocks. They were arrested and placed in jail by Constable C. L. Baker, but were released from custody this morning on account of lack of evidence.

C. A. MYERS HANGED AT FORT WORTH

Head Jerked Off by Fall—Tried to Suicide Before Going to Scaffold.

[By Associated Press.]

Fort Worth, Tex., Nov. 10.—C. A. Myers was hanged here this morning for the murder of A. W. Montague. His head was snapped off by the fall. Two hours before he was hanged Myers tried to commit suicide by cutting his wrist arteries with a piece of glass.

STORY OF THE CRIME.

[By Associated Press.] Fort Worth, Tex., Nov. 10.—C. A. Myers was formally charged with murder on January 20, 1915, after killing A. W. Montague, superintendent of terminals for the Texas & Pacific Railway Company, and Myers' former employer. He discharged Myers several months previous to the killing. Refusal to re-employ Myers as a switchman caused him to accost Montague in the yards, speak a few words to him and before Montague could do anything or say anything fired three shots into his body.

Myers was indicted for murder the next day. Ten days later Myers was tried, convicted and sentenced to hang. An appeal resulted in affirmation of sentence. His attorneys went to Governor Ferguson with a petition for clemency. The Governor held that the law should take its course and that he would not interfere.

Thirty minutes before execution time, on August 12, the Court of Criminal Appeals granted a stay of execution in order to test the man's sanity. The sanity trial was held in September, and a new death sentence imposed. Among the witnesses was Myers' wife. She said she believed her husband was insane. The jury hearing the sanity proceedings returned a verdict that he was sane after taking two ballots. Reaffirmation of the death sentence was passed and the date set for November 10.

Myers was 60 years old. He previously had shot a fellow workman in Tulsa, Okla., and served a short sentence for the crime.

BRYAN'S CREAMERY STILL GROWING

Report Shows Bryan's New Industry Is Flourishing Condition.

At the close of October, the sixth month of its operation, Fairmead Creamery shows an increase of 20 per cent in the amount paid patrons for cream over September. The growth in creambought and number of patrons contributing has been steady since opening on May 1. The amount now paid out is double the sum paid out the first month, while the number of patrons now contributing exceeds fifty, three times the original number.

The farmers of the county are developing their dairy herds and co-operating in this enterprise in an encouraging way. Nearly all the grocers in Bryan are co-operating heartily in buying Fairmead butter, and the consumers, hotels, restaurants and families are co-operating in using the butter and ice cream.

The creamery itself is co-operating in the most efficient way by producing first class products as well as paying to the farmers more for butter fat per pound than are other creameries of the State. The price paid during the summer was 25c a pound, which was 3c to 5c more than other creameries; while it is now paying 30c a pound, which is from 3c to 7c a pound more than other creameries are paying.

This enterprise, set on foot and fostered by the Commercial Club, is doing a good work for the farmers, and with the continued co-operation of the above mentioned agencies, the creamery will do much more to improve agricultural conditions in this and neighboring counties.

HAITI APPROVES TREATY WITH U. S.

Virtually Provides for United States Protectorate Over Haiti—Goes to United States Senate.

Washington, Nov. 12.—The State Department has been officially advised that the Haitian Senate has approved the treaty with the United States, providing for a virtual American protectorate over Haiti. The treaty will go before the United States Senate this winter for approval.

ONLY RAY OF HOPE LIES WITH ALLIES IN SOUTH

While the Germanic Powers Are Sweeping the North the Allies Are Helping to Repulse the Bulgarians in the South—Serbians Have Lost All Railroads in Northern Section Except One Small Line—French Recaptured Veles. It Is Announced the Greek Army Will be Demobilized and Only 50,000 Men Kept Under Arms—Allies Made Loan to Greece Which It Is Believed Will Strengthen Their Cause. Berlin Reports the French and British Were Defeated With Great Loss in Southern Serbia. British Cruiser Sank Two German Submarines—Italian Steamer With 642 on Board Torpedoed—British Torpedo Boat Lost. Three British Steamers Torpedoed and Sunk.

[By Associated Press.]

London, Nov. 10.—The Serbian situation is growing worse in the North, but is more encouraging in the South, where, near Krivolak, four Bulgarian attacks were repulsed with heavy Bulgarian losses and without them gaining a foot of territory.

The French and British figured in this battle, which still continues.

In the North the Serbians have lost all their railways except a small section north of Nish.

The French are reported to have recaptured Veles, in Southern Serbia.

The Greek army will soon be demobilized, according to an Athens dispatch to Rome, which says that only 50,000 men will be left under arms.

The allies' new loan to Greece was announced today and will, it is believed, tend to cement the friendly sentiment for the entente allies in Greece and do more than offers of territory to quicken Greece's benevolent inclination into positive action.

ANGLO-FRENCH DISASTER.

[By Associated Press.]

Berlin, Nov. 10.—Sofia dispatches say the French and British troops in Southern Serbia have been defeated with enormous losses. Details are lacking.

SANK TWO GERMAN SUBS.

[By Associated Press.]

London, Nov. 10.—A British cruiser has sunk two German submarines in the Straits of Gibraltar, according to an Algiers dispatch.

ITALIAN STEAMER SUNK.

[By Associated Press.]

London, Nov. 10.—Two of the Italian steamship Ancona's boats, with fifty-four members of the crew, have landed near Cape Bon, Tunis. Some of them were injured. The Ancona was sunk by an Austrian submarine yesterday in the Mediterranean. This makes a total of 324 survivors reported of the 642 persons aboard. It is believed there were some Americans on board. The Italian censorship is rigid.

ANCONA LIFE LOSS HEAVY.

[By Associated Press.]

London, Nov. 10.—A Lloyds' dispatch from Rizutto says 300 persons on the Ancona were drowned, mostly women, children and emigrants. One hundred and thirty survivors reached Rizutto and forty-five at Malta. A Rome dispatch says 100 shells were fired into the Ancona before she was torpedoed. The ship carried 642 passengers and 160 of the crew.

WAITING IN WASHINGTON.

[By Associated Press.]

Washington, Nov. 10.—Definite information concerning the sinking of the Ancona is awaited by the officials here. Little is known other than that the ship was sunk with a probable loss of American lives. This caused a sensation. If American lives were lost, the United States probably will ask of Austria disavowal, reparation and assurances there will be no repetition.

AMERICANS ON BOARD.

[By Associated Press.]

New York, Nov. 10.—The Ancona agents say they are almost certain that American passengers were on the ship.

Concern is felt here over the steamers Europa, Caserta and Cretic, from New York, now nearing Italy, which have not yet been heard from.

BRITISH TORPEDO BOAT LOST.

[By Associated Press.]

London, Nov. 10.—The British torpedo boat destroyer Lous has been wrecked in the Eastern Mediterranean. The crew was saved.

FOR JOINT WAR COUNCIL.

[By Associated Press.]

London, Nov. 10.—Premier Asquith in the House of Commons today foreshadowed the establishment of an Anglo-French war council in which French and British ministers would sit. He expressed hope that Russia and Italy would join the council.

Mr. Asquith also planned to ask the House of Commons for a vote on a war credit of $2,000,000,000.

GOT THREE BRITISH STEAMERS.

[By Associated Press.]

London, Nov. 10.—The British steamships Clan McAlister, Moorma and Californian have been sunk. Details are withheld.

AMERICAN STEAMER FORCIBLY SEARCHED

Illegal Search Was Made by a British Cruiser in a Mexican Port.

[By Associated Press.]

Washington, Nov. 10.—The American steamer Beeland was forcibly searched by a British cruiser last week in the port of Progreso, Mexico, and the cruiser is now lying outside the harbor, presumably to seize the Beeland. The consular report today is incomplete, but the official conclusion is that the British commander violated the Mexican neutrality and exceeded his rights in searching the vessel in a neutral port.

COMMISSIONERS' COURT.

The regular quarterly term of the commissioners' court has been in session this week with Judge Maloney presiding and Commissioners Hamilton, Easters and Atkins present.

The quarterly reports of the county officials have been received and are being examined by the court.

The court also has under advisement the fixing of the ex-officio salaries of the county officers. This will be done before the session is adjourned.

NEUTRALS TO HOLD PEACE CONFERENCE

Meet Before Christmas at Some Neutral European Capital—Asked Wilson to Co-operate.

[By Associated Press.]

Washington, Nov. 12.—David Starr Jordan, head of the International Peace Congress, told President Wilson today that a quasi-official meeting of neutral Nations would probably be held before Christmas at some neutral European capital in an attempt to bring about peace. He delivered a resolution from the Peace Conference asking President Wilson calling such conference. He stated that Holland, Sweden, Denmark, Switzerland and Spain would be glad to participate. Mr. Jordan did not divulge what President Wilson said.

LIFE WORTH LIVING.

Colonel J. Q. Thompson reached the eighty-fourth yearpost on life's journey yesterday, and observed the event as he has observed his anniversaries for the last twenty years, by dining with his daughter, Mrs. J. H. Lowery. Mr. Thompson is on the list of the country's very old men, but he is yet active and cheerful. Alabama is his native State, but he came to Texas when but a mere youth. His boast is that he has missed but few meals during life, that he has raised a fine garden every year since he was old enough to garden, and that he has been absent very few times when service was held at the Baptist Church. As proof that he is not a "has been," Mr. Thompson refers all inquirers to his spring, summer and fall gardens of the present year.—Honey Grove Signal.

Perhaps there is no better physical or mental tonic than that which Colonel Thompson has prescribed for himself, through so many honorable years—the care and keeping of a garden. To own a good house and live in it, to keep a good garden and work in it—is life in its essential sweetness stripped of the phosphorescent glamor and the falsehood that attaches to the more pretentious structures of metropolitan careers. That Colonel Thompson—whom State Press happens to know—has led a life of usefulness and personal contentment is needless to say. His eighty-four years of good health bespeak an equal term of temperamental ease, and these in their turn bespeak a long span of neighborly kindness, community service, family affection. These are the constituent elements of a successful life experience. Bodily health, mental poise, spiritual growth maintained through eighty-odd years afford a retrospect which Colonel Thompson may view in the calm satisfaction that befits a philosophic mind. To his home, his garden, his church, this aged but vigorous man doubtless grants credit for much of the quiet happiness that has blessed him. And as these agents of activity have been to him instruments of peace and sufficing prosperity, they may be to others equally effective to accomplish good. That so many refuse them querulously while vainly searching for beneficence in less likely places does not discount their value.—State Press.

PRICES FOR PUFFS.

The editor of an Eastern paper, who facetiously refers to himself as the "Peerless Prince of Puff Purveyors," has evolved the following scale of prices for puffs:

For telling the public that a man is a successful citizen, when everybody knows he is as lazy as a hired man, $2.70.

Referring to a sick citizen as one who is mourned by the entire community, when he will only be missed by the poker circle, $10.13.

Referring to one as a hero and a man of courage and one that will stand by his honest convictions, when everybody knows that he is a moral coward and would sell out for thirty cents, $6.21.

Referring to some gallivanting female as an estimable lady whom it is a pleasure to meet and know, when every man in town would sooner see Satan coming, $8.10.

Calling an ordinary pulpit orator an eminent divine, 60 cents.

Sending a doughty sinner to heaven, $5.

Referring to a deceased merchant who never advertised in his life as a progressive citizen, $4.99.

Lambasting the daylights out of the demon rum at the request of the local prohibition committee, $6.77.

Ditto for the prohibitionists at the request of the local wet committee, $6.77.—Exchange.

We have read the above clipping over and over again and with increasing interest with each reading. We have now been astride the editorial tripod for nearly twenty-seven years and this clipping opens up a wide range of vision before us. We tried to make some figures, but they soon ran into numbers beyond the power of calculation or enumeration. If we had gotten ours during these twenty-seven years at the above scale of prices, compared to our wealth John D. Rockefeller would be a pauper.

Another big steel plant in this country engaged in manufacturing war munitions for the allies has been burned at a loss from $1,000,000 to $4,000,000. It is given out the fire was caused by a "short circuit." All who believe that stand on their

THE ELEVENTH COMMANDMENT.

A pastor in New York asked a number of leading citizens to answer this query: What is the most popular sin? Selfishness, malicious gossip, the cheap cry for cheap fun, failure to recognize God, envy, extravagance, living beyond one's income, were some of the answers. Nearly all these and other sins grow out of the tendency of so many of us to disregard the great injunction of the Man of Galilee: Love thy neighbor as thyself.—Gordon Climax.

It is true that our neglect to follow the command of the meek and lowly Nazarene in reference to our neighbor, causes a big lot of the common sins of this country, but we sometimes feel that we are sorely in need of another command; that the number of commands are not sufficient to cover all the meanness into which we have drifted in late years. If we were asked to name a new commandment we'd clothe it in these words: "Love your family as yourself." The breaking up of so many families; the granting of so many divorces; the straying away from home of so many boys and girls, shows a lack of family love that is appalling to contemplate, and it was in this same old-fashioned family circle that mother and father and sister and brother learned to love and respect each other. The passing of the family circle is marked by divorce suits, if nothing worse, and the straying away of sister and brother. Let's make for ourselves a new commandment: "Love our family as ourselves," and the keeping of all the other commandments will come easy.—Mineral Wells Index.

With $30,000,000 due on back taxes in Texas, a shameful failure to enforce the law on the part of public officials is apparent. This $30,000, 000 must be paid by honest taxpayers in addition to the high taxes already paid. Williamson County is paying $56,000 of the amount this year. Too many public officials in Texas look on their office as a private snap and do not earn their salaries. It is time the Augean stables were cleaned out.—Georgetown Commercial.

Dear Brother Rountree, you live mighty close to Austin not to know that it is not the policy in Texas to enforce the law, but to make more laws and still more official positions. Every candidate for office next year should be made to declare himself on the question of retrenchment, and the declaration should be such that he cannot help but do his best to make it stick after the election.

There are said to be between 35,000 and 50,000 cases of pellagra in Texas, notwithstanding the disease only made its appearance in this country within the past decade. It has been a puzzle to the doctors, and while the United States Health Department announces that the cause and cure of the disease has been discovered, the claim was not at all concurred in by the Southern Medical Association, which met in Dallas last week. According to the ideas of these eminent physicians the pellagra question is not yet settled. In some localities in the South the disease is responsible for as many deaths as any other one cause, and it is pointed out that if it increases during the next decade as it has during the past the result will be fearful to contemplate. The seriousness of the situation demands that the very best thought and energies of this Nation be devoted to the mastery of this new scourge, and such a move will be applauded by the people, regardless of the cost.

W. L. TURNER COMES BACK.

Our good friend, W. L. Turner of Madisonville, is back in newspaper harness, having repurchased the Meteor from Judge Sharp. In coming back into the fold, Mr. Turner addresses his friends and patrons as follows:

"I am proud once more to inform you that I have purchased the Madisonville Meteor, and, of course, feel perfectly at home. I know I am among friends, as they have proven it in the past by their liberal patronage and good wishes, therefore I feel that further words from me are unnecessary, except to say I have no promises to make, only that I will give each and every one value received for their money and solicit your continued patronage and good wishes."

President Wilson and his Cabinet are considering methods to raise the money to carry out the President's National defense policy. It is well that they do so. Should the policy be adopted by Congress the money will have to come from somewhere, and it now looks like any additional weight laid on the people's backs would strain them to the breaking point.

The contract for the sidewalks on either side of Bryan street has been awarded. When the work is finished I. & G. N. is completed, Bryan street will be one of the best in the city.

A cannery in Bryan will change the labels on the canned goods to be found on the shelves in Bryan stores. And remember that every time one of these labels is changed it puts just that much money in some farmer's pocket.

The Republican candidate for Governor of Kentucky concedes the election of the Democrat, whose majority was right around 200 votes in the whole State. That's our idea of a close shave.

AS TO CAPITAL PUNISHMENT.

of a law which demands "an eye for an eye."

The Bryan Eagle thinks that in clinging to capital punishment organized society still lingers on the borderland of barbarism. In commenting on the recent remarks of the Post relative to a growing sentiment against it, The Eagle says:

"Capital punishment has already been abolished in ten States and in time all the people will come to realize that it is a relic of barbarism not to be longer tolerated. The question is, has society the right to take a strong, able-bodied man and kill him, even by law? Taking human life is a serious thing. If a man by his conduct is a menace to the public peace and safety, let him be forever restrained of his liberty. His life is in the hands of God alone."

Yet, in the present condition of the public mind, it is to be doubted if the abolition of capital punishment for certain crimes would not defeat its own purpose by encouraging mob violence. Laws that are in advance of public sentiment generally fail of enforcement. In other words, they are defied.—Houston Post.

The Eagle doubts, if capital punishment were abolished today, that it would increase mob violence. Like begets like, is a fixed law of nature, and every man that is hung makes the mob spirit that much fiercer and the mob that much thirstier for human blood. Mob violence has not increased in those States where capital punishment has been abolished and we doubt if it would anywhere. Anyway, we think a discussion of the subject is beneficial, for it is only by education that we get away from those things which have long held us in the dark. Through discussion the people will come to give the subject that serious consideration it deserves, and through this consideration they will come gradually to see the horror

Secretary of War Garrison wants a large army, an army which sounds more like Europe than this land of liberty and peace. He wants an available force of 1,500,000 men as follows: Increasing the regular army to 250,000 men permanently with the colors, and with reserves of 300,000 fully trained men to fill gaps in this force. Behind this line it is proposed to have a force of 1,000,000, with at least a year's training, giving the country an army of about 1,500,000 fully equipped and easily mobilized.

Pay your poll tax, plant a pig, raise a few chickens, select your seed corn and cotton now, sow some winter wheat and oats, hold down cotton acreage, and next year you will be more prosperous than this year.—Dallas County Record.

Advice is said to be cheap, but the above is good dope, however.

The Eagle today publishes the list of accounts paid by the commissioners' court due by Brazos County for the month of October. A perusal of same will give a fair idea of the objects for which the money collected in taxes is being expended.

The Texas Federation of Women's Clubs in annual session at Brownwood endorsed a woman's suffrage resolution by a vote of 65 to 39. The vote shows that even the club women of the State are largely divided on the subject and the suffrage idea is not unanimous among them by any means. There is no question but what the proportion of club women favoring suffrage is far greater than among women who are not club members, especially in the rural districts. The Eagle believes if the proposition were submitted to a vote of the women of the State it would be defeated overwhelmingly.

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 10.—A $60,000 herd of prize Guernsey cattle belonging to Mrs. Scott Durand of Lake Forest, and condemned to death because of foot and mouth disease infection, was slaughtered Tuesday after the sheriff, with an order from Governor Dunne, locked Mrs. Durand and her servants in the pretentious farm house and read to her his order to kill the cattle. He was an excellent gentleman and had quite a large number of friends who regret very much to learn of his death. He had no close relatives in Brazos County.

BIG LOCAL REAL ESTATE DEAL

Hotel Bryan, Leading Hostelry of City, Sold by Ed S. Derden to Sam B. Wilson.

For some days there have been whisperings of a big real estate deal pending, but developments had not progressed far enough for publication. It was "released" this morning, however, and The Eagle is authorized to state that the Hotel Bryan, the leading hostelry of the city, has been sold and conveyed by Ed S. Derden, the builder, to Sam B. Wilson. The vacant lot along the north side of the hotel and adjoining the Myers property, was also included in the deal. The price and terms of the transaction are private.

J. S. Doane, lessee of the hotel, will continue in charge of same, and has entered into a contract with the new proprietor for a five-year lease. Mr. Wilson will improve the vacant lot when the demands of the hotel will justify it.

The Hotel Bryan is a commodious three-story brick structure, modern in design and equipped with all modern and up-to-date conveniences. Under the splendid management of Mr. Doane it has made an enviable reputation with the traveling public and will no doubt continue to enjoy its present popularity.

RECESSIONAL.

God of our fathers, known of old—
Lord of our far-flung battle line—
Beneath whose awful hand we hold
Dominion over palm and pine—
Lord God of Hosts, be with us yet,
Lest we forget—lest we forget!

The tumult and the shouting dies—
The captains and the kings depart—
Still stands Thine ancient sacrifice,
An humble and a contrite heart.
Lord God of Hosts, be with us yet,
Lest we forget—lest we forget!

Fa-called, our navies melt away—
On dune and headland sinks the fire—
Lo, all our pomp of yesterday
Is one with Nineveh and Tyre!
Judge of the Nations, spare us yet,
Lest we forget—lest we forget!

H. drunk with sight of power, we loose
Wild tongues that have not Thee in awe—
Such boasting as the Gentiles use,
Or lesser breeds within the law—
Lord God of Hosts, be with us yet,
Lest we forget—lest we forget!

Fa-called, our navies melt away—
On dune and headland sinks the fire—

MUSICAL NOTES.

By HERBERT WILLIAM REED.

Complete ruin has befallen Mr. Padewski's estate in Poland. Nothing remains but the stumps of trees that once formed a beautiful park which was the owner's particular pride. The pianist is giving the receipts of his recitals to Polish relief.

Miss Margaret Wilson, the President's daughter, is appearing in concerts in the West. She is said to have a very pleasing soprano voice. Miss Wilson prefers an artistic career to a social one and admits that her sole ambition in life is to sing. This same young lady says that the President himself is a good singer and has a splendid tenor voice.

Commenting upon the same, Musical America says: "The President's duties will undoubtedly prevent him from treading the operatic or the concert stage, though if we had a singing Bryan in the White House there is no telling what might happen to the Nation and the musical world."

Last week the composer, Charles Wakefield Cadman, appeared in Houston in concert with the Indian Princess Redfeather, a soprano singer, presenting a program of Indian music with lecture. Mr. Cadman is one of the most popular song composers in America today. His summer home, Daoma Lodge, Estes Park, Colo., has been built entirely from the proceeds of royalties on the song, "At Dawn."

The Philadelphia Orchestra will give a series of eight free concerts in the public school auditoriums of the city. This has been made possible by Cyrus H. K. Curtis of the Public Ledger. The orchestra conductor, Mr. Stekowski, expresses great enthusiasm for the work, saying, "The school children of today are our audiences of tomorrow."

As a tribute to John Philip Sousa, who celebrated his fifty-ninth birthday on November 6, Manager Charles Dillingham arranged to have the famous bandmaster's latest composition, "The New York Hippodrome March," played simultaneously in every city from the Atlantic to the Pacific. It is estimated that 200 theaters and orchestras played the composition at the same time.

An American musical pioneer, L. O. Emerson, died recently at the age of 95. Such a span of life is given to but few persons. In his early years he was noted as an organizer of singing schools and musical conventions. Our grandfathers courted our grandmothers at the old fashioned singing schools. Nowadays the motion picture show is the courting ground. Mr. Emerson is probably best known by his church hymns and anthems. It is interesting to know that when he was born Beethoven had seven and Schubert eight more years to live. Chopin, Mendelssohn, Schumann and Liszt were but small boys. Music, then, as we know it, is but a very modern art after all.

In this year of our Lord the woods are full of them. They are as plentiful as boll weevils in a Brazos bottom cotton patch. They are as abundant as the flocks of sparrows that formerly housed in the trees before the Carnegie Library. Who?

The thousands of artists and semi-artists who have landed in this country because of the curtailment of art and the means of making a living in Europe. Of violinists there are a plenty, of pianists a great number, and of singers a multitude. It has frequently been stated that the number of American singers and vocal students living in European centers amounted to fully 5,000. Not only have most of these returned, together with the great mass of instrumentalists residing there, but a great many native artists, teachers and students of the various countries at war. All have flocked to our shores to establish themselves, or to eke out a livelihood during the period of war and turmoil.

We do not realize it down here, but the Eastern cities are deluged with them. Many of the greatest teachers and artists have settled in America to stay. Managers, concert agents and booking companies are more active than ever before. Never in American history has there been such a plentiful supply of talent. Not only every city in Texas, but nearly every town of any size in the State, boasts of the artists it has secured and the concerts it will have. And Texas is but one State out of the many.

The musical awakening long looked for is here. It is here in full flood. America is coming into her own. Our people are talking more about music, they are more deeply interested in it, they are hearing more of it than at any time previous. Musical taste is improving. There can be no doubt about it. It will continue to improve the more people are accustomed to hear good music.

In Europe there will be no "quick return to the study of the fine arts when the war closes. Her people must need turn their attention to procuring the bare necessities of life. Art suffers when the children cry for bread. The spirit of music, long claimed by European Nations as their divine heritage, has seen fit to remove herself to America's hospitable shores, where, far removed from the sounds of turmoil and the horrors of war, she will doubtless continue to remain. The signs of the times point to America as the future art center of the world.

LETTER FROM THE PLAINS.

Crops and Cattle Fine and Prosperity Runs Rampant.

Editor Eagle:

I have often thought of writing since I moved away out here on the North Plains, and try and tell a few things about this country.

Not long ago I noticed a piece in The Eagle written by Will Dickson, telling what they could do on the South Plains. Now I think we can beat that. I will first tell you what I have in my garden: White-headed cabbage, several weighing from ten to twelve pounds, and they were set out about July 15. (I suppose Doug as Peters and Marion Sellers remember it very well, for they helped set them out.) And we have the finest lettuce, mustard, onions and tomatoes. I visited one of my neighbors last Sunday and they took us out to their turnip patch, and such fine turnips, just planted on sod land. We have such rich soil, fertilizer doesn't do this land any good. Now, don't think this garden or turnip patch were irrigated, for they were not. We have had lots of rain all this year and people were awfully late getting their feed planted on account of raining all the spring.

We never got our maize planted until the last of June and some we wanted about the middle of July, an' will average ton to the acre and early planted will average a ton and a half. Most everybody plants dwarf maize. Kaffir corn, fete-rita, wheat, oats and barley all were good. The wheat averaged about twenty-two bushels to the acre. The best of all are the fine white-faced cattle (calves at $30 a head) and hogs, of which everybody has plenty, are allowed to run outside in the fields. We have 150 head and don't feed them a thing, but we turned seventy acres of grain over to them and they feed themselves, and they have over 200 acres of new wheat and over 100 acres of barley to graze on.

We are going to graze 500 calves for a stockman at 60c per head per month, and we have pasture enough to last for three months, so you see that will make a lot more than a small farmer can make down there. I wish lots of times the people down there could have what is wasted here.

Now, we have some disadvantages, but the advantages are very far ahead of the disadvantages. We are forty-five miles from a railroad, but where you stock farm altogether you don't miss the railroad. Over half the people own automobiles and all have rural telephones.

We have a fine high school at Ochiltree. All primary schools in the country run from six to eight months, beginning the term about September 1.

It is the best place in the world to educate children, for there is not much work a child can do in the field.

Most all kinds of fruits do well. While there is not so very much raised, yet this is a newly settled country and most everybody has young orchards, and some few old settlers have fine orchards. My, I came near forgetting to tell that this is the best place in the world to raise chickens, as anyone can keep 500 hens here as easily as you could keep ten down there, for we have so much small grain.

We are expecting a big crop next year, as most all the wheat is up and looking good, and a fine season is in the ground. We are having a late fall, but we are expecting a big frost soon. Now, what do you think?

We had roasting ears for dinner on October 7 from the field. It was ordinary Indian corn and was planted about June 15.

However that may be, the fact is that this report shows an increased consumption in the month of September of 48,000 bales and indicates an increased consumption this year of more than a million bales.

Would Reduce Present Price.

Now if a ginning report should indicate 500,000 bales of supply more than the current estimate, it would reduce the price of cotton from $2 to $1 a bale. I insist, therefore, that a report of an increased consumption in this amount adds considerable value to our cotton, for the equilibrium of supply and demand is disturbed as much by adding 500,000 bales to the demand side of the equation as by subtracting it from the supply side of the equation. The producers and the traders in the primary market have not been advised of this increase of consumption, though the whole world is advised whenever there appears to be the prospect of a single bale of cotton in excess of the previously estimated supply.

WISE AND OTHERWISE.

"Did you ever dream of being a pirate when you were a boy?"

"Oh, yes. Isn't it queer? Now I'm in the prosaic business of managing an automobile repair shop."

"Umpf! You didn't miss it so far."

Father (gloomily)—No; but—er, I have hopes."—Passing Show.

"Did you tell that young man of yours that I am going to have the light switched off at 10?"

"Yes, dad."

"Well?"

"He's coming in at 10 in future!"—London Mail.

MILLION BALES OF COTTON YET NEEDED

Detailed Digest of Commerce and Trade Reports for Countries Given by Crop Experts.

By CLARENCE OUSLEY.

College Station, Tex., Nov. 9.—I find from commerce reports, the publication of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce of the Department of Commerce, at Washington, as reprinted in Commerce and Finance of November 3, a report of September cotton consumption in 1915 compared with 1914 in Brazil, France (Normandy only), Egypt, Japan, Spain and China.

The report shows that in each case the spindles of these countries were engaged during September at a higher percentage of activity than in September, 1914.

Increase in Consumption.

The report shows also that the increase in the actual consumption of cotton by these mills was something more than 48,000 bales. At that rate of increased consumption these mills in twelve months will use more than 500,000 bales of cotton in excess of what they used last year. These are small manufacturing countries, but there is little doubt in my mind that the state of the cotton manufacturing industry in these countries is substantially the same as in England and Russia, from which it is difficult just now to get accurate data. If I am correct in this opinion, then the foreign mills will use for the season of 1915-16, 1,000,000 bales of cotton more than they used in the season of 1914-15.

However that may be, the fact is that this report shows an increased consumption in the month of September of 48,000 bales and indicates an increased consumption this year of more than a million bales.

Would Reduce Present Price.

Now if a ginning report should indicate 500,000 bales of supply more than the current estimate, it would reduce the price of cotton from $2 to $1 a bale. I insist, therefore, that a report of an increased consumption in this amount adds considerable value to our cotton

CHURCHILL LEFT BRITISH CABINET

Holds Rank as Major in Oxford Yeomanry and Will Join Regiment. Action Not Unexpected.

[By Associated Press.]

London, Nov. 13.—It is officially announced that Winston Spencer Churchill, Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, has resigned from the Cabinet and will join the army in France.

Rumors had been current for some time that Mr. Churchill would resign his seat in the Cabinet and go out on active service at the front. He is a major in the Oxford Yeomanry.

Mr. Churchill was serving as First Lord of the Admiralty when the war began, and filled that office until the formation of the coalition Cabinet last May. He took the position of Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster in the new Cabinet, Arthur J. Balfour being made First Lord of the Admiralty.

Mr. Churchill in his letter of resignation explains that he agrees in the formation of a small war council and appreciates the intention which Premier Asquith expressed to include him among its members. He foresaw the difficulties that the Premier would have to face in its composition, he states, and he makes no complaint because the scheme was changed, but with that change his work in the government naturally closed. He said he could not accept a position of general responsibility for a war policy without any effective share in its guidance.

Mr. Preston's many Bryan friends will be sorry to learn of his loss and especially so as he carried no insurance.

ITALY TO BALKANS.

[By Associated Press.] Milan, Italy, Nov. 12.—A Rome telegram says the Italian Cabinet last night agreed to send an expedition to the Balkans.

FEARS SERBS CUT OFF.

[By Associated Press.] Milan, Italy, Nov. 12.—There is grave reason to fear the main Serbian army, which is fighting the German-Bulgarian right wing, has been cut off between Kraljevo and Nish, says a news dispatch. It is considered significant here as no news has been received from this army holding at Katchanik, for five days.

ANCONA CAPTAIN REPORTS.

[By Associated Press.] Naples, Nov. 12.—Owners of the Ancona have received the report of her captain, positively charging the submarine neither gave warning to the Ancona nor afforded those on board an opportunity to escape. He says he stopped the Ancona when the first shot was fired, but the submarine continued firing. The captain says he ordered everybody into life boats, after which the submarine turned loose all her guns, killing and wounding many persons. The exact

[By Associated Press.] London, Nov. 18.—The publication of a decree dissolving the Greek Chamber of Deputies was received quietly in Athens, despite the fact that all elements hoped to avoid the elections during the present difficult moment. The government apparently found dissolution the only means of securing for itself full and undisputed liberty of action.

Greek officials here assert Greece's future actions depend upon military and not political considerations, and as soon as Greece is convinced the allies have enough troops to make a successful offensive against Bulgaria, Greece will immediately join the allies.

Berlin says the Serbians are being driven from their positions south of Kraljevo, while southwest of Krusevac desperate fighting continues. Artillery combats continue at three sections on the Dardanelles.

On the Western front near Loos spirited bombardments occurred, the French claiming to have silenced certain German batteries.

ing. The official judges of these contests are outside men. Aside from doing the placings, these men listen to the student's reasons and offer criticism and advice. Each man is given a grade on his placing and another on his reasons. The man getting the highest combined grade wins the prize for that particular class.

The days these boys spend at the fair are far from holidays. The work begins at 9 o'clock and ends at 6 that night. All of the boys, however, are unanimous in saying that the time spent is far more profitable than a similar amount of time spent in class work, even though it means increased effort when they get back to school in order for them to pass their school work. If more trips of this character could be taken from time to time, the A. & M. College could send a winning stock judging team to Chicago every year, for these contests are the training schools for the successful team.

The animal husbandry department is one of the most fortunate departments in the school in this respect, for more opportunities are offered their men to enter contests of this kind than any other. Animal husbandry seniors are in demand at all the county fairs of Texas to do the official judging. Several of the seniors have already judged in county fairs this year, and others have been engaged.

Among the students who went to Dallas this year were a large number of juniors. It is well that they did, for they obtained experience they will never regret. It is well for the junior to realize that he is not losing out in his school work, that he is not getting behind his less fortunate brother, but rather that he is that much ahead of the man who stays at college and digs continually. There must be some relationship between good scholarship and these trips, for records show that a smaller per cent of the men who took these trips fail in their work than those who remain the entire year on the campus. The men who went to Dallas this year all intend going back next year, and our school realizes that it is not loss, but gain, for our men to take these trips. JOHNSON-GRAY.

Friends and relatives in this city have been apprised of the marriage of Mr. W. P. Johnson of Fort Worth and Miss Ursula Gray of Handley last Sunday afternoon at 2:45 o'clock, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. I. A. Gray, at Handley.

The bride's family were formerly residents of Bryan and she was reared in this city. She has quite a large circle of friends here, won by her sweet friendliness and unaffected manners, who join in expressing best wishes for a long and happy life.

The groom is a conductor on the interurban between Fort Worth and Dallas, and they will make their home in Fort Worth.

SCOUTS AGAIN DEFEAT SCRUBS.

The high school scrubs were again defeated by the Boy Scouts yesterday afternoon by a score of 12 to 3 in the hardest fought game between the two teams. The feature of the game was a drop kick by Jim Scardino from the twenty-yard line for the scrubs. The scouts had the assistance of Henry Harrison and Sam Parker of the high school first team.

W. L. CLOSS AGAIN IN BUSINESS.

W. L. Closs of Tabor has purchased the general merchandise establishment located on the Wheelock and Kurten road in the northern part of the county from its former proprietor, George Edge, and has taken charge. Mr. Closs is a well known merchant in the county and will conduct the business in the future up to its former high standard. The Eagle did not learn the consideration.

ORDER NURSERY TREES FOR FALL

A. & M. Extension Department Gives Direction for Ordering Trees and Planting Methods.

Now is the time to place orders for nursery stock. Nurseries fill orders in the order they are received. By ordering early the pick of the stock is secured and also it is on hand to plant this fall.

Orders should be placed only with reliable nurseries. If considerable acreage is to be planted it is a good plan to visit the nurseries and select the stock while it is growing. Only the best grade of trees should be planted. Nursery stock is a very small portion of the cost of growing and orchard and it is poor economy to plant cheap trees.

One year old trees are the best for planting. Select medium sized, well matured trees, not oversized. If one year old trees cannot be obtained two year old ones will give good results, but care must be exercised in selecting them to get ones that have not been headed too high by the nurseryman.

W. B. Lanham, horticulturist for the extension department of the A. & M. College, says he has always had the best results with fall planted trees, in some cases getting fully twice the growth of spring planted trees.

In most places in Texas fall planting is recommended. It may be that in the extreme northern parts that better results might be obtained with spring planting, but in practically all of the fruit belt of the State fall planting is recommended.

The land should be well prepared, as for a crop of corn or cotton. All broken or diseased roots should be removed and the tree planted to the same depth that it stood in the nursery row.

The reason many trees fail to grow is because the dirt is not well packed around the roots, especially under the crown of the tree, and it dries out. This point should receive especial attention. Fall planted trees are less likely to die from this, as the dirt will be packed firmly around the roots by the winter rains and they are ready to start growth with the first warm days of spring.

The extension department is willing to furnish information to any grower as to selection of varieties or any planting problems that may come up. Any information of this character is free upon application to the director of extension at College Station, Texas. —Clarence Ousley, Director of Extension, A. & M. College of Texas.

PRESIDENT BIZZELL WRITES THE POST

Says Agricultural Course Is Popular and Shows That 50 Per Cent of Students Study It.

To the Post:

I read with interest your editorial in the Houston Post of this date in which you call attention to the fact that 50 per cent of the students at the State Agricultural and Mechanical College of Mississippi are taking the agricultural course. Your favorable comment on this fact leads me to think that you will be interested in a few figures taken from the registrar's records of the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas.

The comparative growth by years in the number of students taking agriculture at this institution is as follows:

1906-07	88
1907-08	113
1908-09	119
1909-10	246
1910-11	428
1911-12	510
1912-13	513
1913-14	474
1914-15	507

A comparison of the enrollment in the school of agriculture and the school of engineering for the last three years is as follows:

School of agriculture, 1912-13.... 514
School of engineering, 1912-13.... 499
School of agriculture, 1913-14.... 474
School of engineering, 1913-14.... 414

The enrollment today for the current year is as follows:

School of agriculture..... 565
School of engineering..... 463

As you will see from these figures more than 50 per cent of the students of this institution are taking agriculture.

While we are disposed to note with gratification the increasing number that are enrolling in agricultural courses, we should not lose sight of the fact also that the continued increasing number in engineering courses is gratifying as an evidence

LIQUOR SHIPMENTS MUST BE LABELED

Failure to Do So Makes Shipper
Subject to Prosecution in Either State.

Washington, Nov. 15.—The Supreme Court today held that persons who ship liquor without labeling it as such from one State into another, are punishable in either State. This overrules the action of the Kansas Federal court.

HARVEY HAPPENINGS.

The Free Baptist Sunday school gave a short program at the church Sunday. The Sunday school lesson was on temperance and they observed the day by each member wearing a white flower, which is an emblem of purity. The house was decorated in flowers. Miss Lillie Davidson stood at the door and pinned a white flower and a bow of white ribbon on everyone as they came in. We make special mention of the paper Mrs. Davidson had on the life of Miss Frances Willard, which was very interesting.

Dr. Rea has returned from Dallas, where he attended the Southern Medical Association meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Buchanan have returned home from Waco, after spending several days with their daughter, Mrs. Newton Clifton.

Mrs. J. D. Jones spent last week with her daughter, Mrs. Wylie Higgs of Fountain.

Miss Faye Buchanan left Thursday for Waco to visit her sister, Mrs. Newton Clifton, and to attend the Cotton Palace.

Miss Pansy McSwain of Wellborn spent Saturday and Sunday with Miss Lillie Ferguson.

Raymond Todd of Rock Prairie spent last week with Paul Ferguson —Correspondent.

MRS. FANNIE STRAUB.

A Tribute of Respect by One Who Loved Her.

With saddened hearts we pen the following in respect for a beloved friend. Mrs. Fannie Straub, who was born February 8, 1865, and died November 11, 1915, aged 50 years, 9 months and 3 days.

It pleased an allwise God to call unto Himself one more soul, seemingly willing to go.

On June 20, 1892, she was united in holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. August Straub, the justice of the peace officiating.

She was a member of the Methodist Church in Tennessee, but came to Texas in 1887, where she has since lived and was loved by all who knew her.

She is the third to go to that great beyond, two boys having gone before. Her body was interred at Minter Springs cemetery and the funeral services were conducted by Rev. Merka.

A loving husband and eight devoted children, besides a host of friends, are left to mourn her death.

You knew not how much I loved you.

How could you know indeed?

While I was living carelessly,

And gave so little heed

To that which made my happiness.

Your presence day by day,

I never knew the half myself

Until you passed away.

But, oh, to live without you,

While days and months go by,

To miss your shielding guidance,

The approval of your eye.

To listen in the silence for the voice

I hear no more,

Or the echo of your footsteps upon the soundless floor.

Ah, dearest mother, in that better home

I hope you may not know the grief

I share which you would pity so.

But, oh, that I could tell you; perhaps the angels will.

How much, how much I loved you

And how much I love you still.

—ONE WHO LOVED HER.

COMMISSIONERS' COURT.

Ex-Officio Salaries of Officers Fixed
Road Matters Considered.

Following are the proceedings of the commissioners' court during their regular quarterly session held last week.

The quarterly reports of the county officials were read and approved as received.

The court ordered that the salary of Fred Doberesky, in charge of the county poor farm, be raised from $15 to $20 per month.

The court ordered that the ex-officio salaries of the following officers be fixed for one year as follows:

County judge..... $1,500
County clerk..... 650
District clerk..... 300
Sheriff..... 500

The court ordered that the salary of the county treasurer be fixed at such per cent commission as will not exceed $1,200 per annum. County Judge J. T. Maloney announced that for a new term he would be in favor of a reduction in the fees for the office of the county treasurer to such a percentage as will not exceed $600 per annum, believing that for the service performed that amount is entirely equitable, regardless of who may hold the office.

A petition was received from W. E. Graham and others of Rock Prairie asking that the public road be widened. This matter was referred to Commissioner J. M. Atkins to report at the next meeting what was expected of the county.

A petition was read from F. W. Locke and others asking for a public road of the second class from the Bryan and Macy road to the Wheelock and Iron Bridge road, and asked that a jury of view be appointed to assess the damages. The road was granted.

The bond furnished by G. R. Abney and A. McCormick, engineers to whom the contract was awarded for the engineering work in connection with the building of good roads in district No. 1, was examined and approved. The bond furnished was in the sum of $5,000.

The court was then adjourned.

BRAZOS COUNTY GINNINGS.

Ed S. Derden, ginning census enumerator for Brazos County, announces that prior to November 1 there had been ginned in the county 14,846 bales, compared with 18,439 last year. A decrease for 1915 under 1914 of 3,675 bales.

CARD OF THANKS.

We extend sincere thanks to those who ministered so faithfully and tenderly during the illness and death of our husband and father. We are very thankful for the many beautiful floral offerings. May God's blessings be upon you all.

MRS. W. P. BULLOCK AND FAMILY.
